EXAM IN PROGRESS

Extract from: EGRA-48304
7 March 1958

In Vienna, GRAYER has very little in Vienna, and has even deliberately pulled back from Vienna operations because of conflicts with other U.S.ING operational groups, and the refusal on the part of U.S.ING to give GRAYER much of a charter in Vienna. He also (had/had) some distrust of V-14801, which I unfortunately could not fully predict. (and I do) as (Walter) the surviving one has the best war detailed information on operations), but the U.S.ING and V-14801 signed an agency contract, but that was later (by) V-14801 personally trouble with American authorities, I believe. In any case, GRAYER stated he did not wish to extend V-14801's authority or his operations beyond that which he currently knew, and was not urging him on to take up new contacts. There was also some concern about V-14801's having failed to report something to Austrian authorities which gave GRAYER control over him. GRAYER is a little apprehensive about V-14801 from long past, partly because he is fully cognizant of GRAYER's true identity and history.
